"Mum can we go to the shop?", I asked.

"I replied, 'I need to buy some flowers!'"

"We can go," said Mum, wondering who the flowers we for.

"They're for my teacher, it's her birthday tomorrow"
 I excitedly explained.

Mum told me that's a very nice idea.

Bertie and his <sup>Soul</sup><sub>call</sub>, masivly

I was wondering up the hill when, suddenly I saw a strange figure coming towards me and it got closer and closer until he asked me, "What's your name little man you must be lost," I saw a similar face, I asked
 "What's your name", he replied.

The man replied "Bertie." I was shocked and I couldn't believe my eyes. "Is it really you?" I asked. "yes"
 "YES it is really me," He replied.

Moments later, Bertie took me to a scroll on a straw bridge he told me all about his life. "But aren't you dead?"
 I asked. He never replied to that. He showed me the lion. He was white as snow. I asked a lot of questions because it was a mystery.

Basher Boamouth was uncoinse and he had strength but he was too tired to move a tiny bit.

Bertie came up to the lion and thanked him for saving him. Bertie had to go somewhere but didn't tell me, but he gave me a special gift and said "keep this safe". The words couldn't get of my head. The next day I woke up and knew it wasn't a dream because I saw the gift from Bertie.
